“ I don't know where to start to share a memory about my dear friend and as tears of sorrow flow down my cheeks it has is hard to keep my mind straight. He was a golden friend we met when we were 18 yrs. old, and we have been brothers ever since, we had a lot of good times to together. I used the word golden to describe are friendship, because gold has a high value in todays market, Del has a high value in my heart, like a ring wore on your finger over the years the rubbing of the other fingers against ring polish and keep the ring shinning.And that is what are friendship has been. There is nothing I can say to stop the pain of losing a love one, none of us are exempt from the storms of life only God can help us at these times. Cat and I will miss you.

“ It's been 12 years since I started working with Dawnelle, as well as her parents, and it became apparent right away that her dad had instilled his amazing work ethic in his daughter. Del was the true definition of "old school". You go to work when your sick, you go to work when your frustrated, you go to work when your not feeling it. But no matter what you put everything you have into it, and you always take pride in what you do. Del was the everything you'd ask for in an employee. You never wondered if he'd be there. You never wondered if he had his A game. He just did his job, everyday the only way he knew how. Vendors knew he could be tough, people knew he could get agitated, but only because it was his backroom and that's how it was. 3 directors never asked him to change. Countless vendors came and went and every time they were quick to realize how it was meant to be done. In my position nothing was more satisfying than knowing one part of the area you oversee is taken care of without worry, and that was Del. Not one time was I worried about that backroom on his watch. He respected me and was good to me from the time I moved into my position. Without saying specifics, he paid me the highest compliment I've ever received at this company. Not to me, and not because he had to, but because he meant it. For all the old school, rough around the edges, never stop going work ethic he had, Del had an amazing heart. What he said wasn't meant to make me feel better, or to kiss ass. Del didn't do that. What he said he meant and it was because it was what he felt in his heart. Part timers that didn't know him and saw him as an intimidating figure never got to see the real him. He did what was in the best interest of the store. He did things nobody asked him to do. He'd go out in the rain on the forklift by himself to get something off the trailer just because he knew I needed it. I never asked him, he just did it. That's who he was. If you gave him respect he gave it right back. Now strip all the work stuff away, and you get the other side of Del. The side that would do anything for his kids. Anything for his grandkids. Hell, anything for me and I wasn't even family. Never have I met a man with the old school work values and the kind soft heart that this man displayed. I've see every side of him and I will have nothing but respect and love for him as long as I live. His daughter, my best friend, is lucky to have had him as her father. It's not going to be easy but I will never stop helping her get through this rough time in her life. And Deb..what can I say about Deb. She was his best friend and I know she's hurting. I just want to say Deb, I love you, I love your family, and I would do anything to help you get through this. You are my family just as much as your daughter is. I am here for all of you no matter what. Del's memory will live on with me for the rest of my life and I feel blessed to have known him. He is what I hope to be one day.

“ I am a vendor for Acosta Sales and have been calling on this store for 11 years. I always loved going into this store every week. What a loving couple. They would walk hand in hand at the end of a work day. Del would wait patiently as I would ask Deb for a price tag and it was around lunch time.. I would love to hear the painful stories about their sons horrific car wreck a few years back. I tried to give words of encouragement. This is a very tough time for the family. My prayers are with the family.. Donna Buchanan

“ Words are so tough at times. This is one of those times. Your family has been a part in my life for over 13 years. I had the great opportunity to work with the best, and your family is at the top of that list.
Del was THE BEST at his job that I EVER worked with in my career. Never was there a worry. His chuckle was amazing. His organization was awesome. His backroom was HIS. No vendor EVER tried to pull one over.
Del and Deb were the ultimate couple. Never apart and always together.
Dawnelle called her Father the Rock. I completely agree.
Rest well my friend. God got himself one amazing warrior.

“ I met Del 7 or so years ago when I started delivering to his Hy-Vee. I always looked forward to seeing him bright and early around 5am every Tuesday and Friday. He was a man who took his job very seriously and would go out of his way to make sure to help me unload the liquor to make it a quick and as smooth as possible delivery. Over these years, him and I grew very close and I learned what an amazing man he was. He so loved and valued his family more than anything else and took much pride in his duties at work. When the news was broke to me Friday morning I literally was speechless, then my heart broke. Things will never be the same without him there, he is one of a kind and Irreplaceable. I truly respected him and looked up to him as a man and employee. I want to send love and prayers to his family and friends. Rest in peace my friend.

“ Del was the receiving manager at hyvee, and i met Del every Monday morning at 845 am to check in my order. Del to me was a friend, a solid employee, a person who cared, and someone who I looked forward to seeing each week. When I delivered today, I asked if Del was here today, they looked at each other, and told me that Del had passed away friday morning. My heart sank! Del was a great guy, who took his job seriously, and he earned my respect from day one. I pray for his family, both at home and work!

“ My deepest sympathy for the family, especially Donald his father. Has to be terrible to loose one of our children. I worked with Jackie for years and she has shared pictures of the family so felt I knew them.
May God be with you and bring all of you peace.

“ My heart is heavy. I simply can't believe that this man who was the "picture" of health is no longer here. You simply couldn't find a employee that gave more to his job. Such pride in doing the right thing over and over again. As Chris King said, he was old school and had an amazing work ethic. I'm glad he was my friend and my love and prayers go out to his most wonderful wife and daughter. Maribeth Brennaman
