“ I loved my Dad with every beat of my heart. I wish I could have given him mine. But..yes my dad was a great musician but was funny and loved little pranks too. I get that from him! I could go on and on. Point is that he taught a lot of kids sports and a lot of people loved him. He would be so amazed at the turn out of his funeral. He truly loved each and every one of you guys! Thank you for being there.

“ Fred was my cousin, he & I were born exactly one month one day apart. His mom wanted a girl my mom wanted a boy, but they loved us just the same. As we grew we shared bottles, diapers, tears, fears and love for one another. Fred was a kind soul, he was slow to anger, loved deeply, and was a peace keeper. There are so many memories we shared as children, but speaking of sharing,, one time as small kids at a rodeo Fred and I were thirsty, our mothers told us to go get water, but on the way to the chuck wagon where our grandma worked, we saw all these pop bottles in a crate that had been opened that still had soda in em, some half full some with just well, little amounts of liquid .So Fred and I not knowing about sickness had a big time pouring all the left over soda and what ever into one bottle, we took our seat at an old picnic table and drank our Free pop. 🤩. And strutted around our older siblings bragging we have pop. Well ofcourse they went and told on us, and the rest is history. 🤔. When Fred had his first child Nick, then Holly and Adam, I saw in Fred's eyes his heart was complete, he had a purpose and adored his children. Nick, Holly, and Adam he is always with you, look in the mirrow, look at your babies and each other, he is there. He will come in your dreams and always watch over you throughout your lives. My prayer for each of you is peace comes fast, and God wraps you in his arms, for eternity is where he now stays. You my dears are what your dad gave for us to love. Forever love your Cousin RaeDean

“ Fred always made me laugh. My favorite memory of Fred was his smile. It was so contagious. He would flash you that smile and then do his fake "cool" strut. He would get to swinging his arms, throwing his head back...I would just bust out laughing. What a great guy. Rest in Peace, Fred.

“ Fred was a true bud to male or female! We always had laughs and jokes to tell each other. I really enjoyed having him in the survey office, he could keep you in stitches all day! His singing was just as good as his laugh. He sincerely was a unique man and loved by everyone he met. RIP Fred!

“ Fred was such a gregarious classmate. He always had a quick wit and if there was any shenanigans going on in the hallways, Fred was usually in the thick of it! I remember one time when he and I were at odds with one another and some heated words were exchanged between us. We were nose to nose and all of a sudden that goofy grin of his appeared and the heat disappeared. I couldn't have kept my anger even if I had tried! We both laughed and went on to our classes.

“ Fred used to walk down the hall looking for our gang of 4 in the classrooms. When we had all managed to get out of class with one excuse or another, we would head over to Bob Shier's freshman biology class. Once there, we would peek around the doorway where only Mr. Shier could see us and stand so that our heads looked like they were stacked one on another. Then a hand would appear to grab each head back as we screamed silently. Bob couldn't laugh because he was always in the middle of a lecture in front of his class when this happened. It was all Fred's idea. Such a funny guy! We had a little happy, jazzy dance that we used to do several times a day in the hallways. I did it last night as I bid Fred farewell. Love and peace to his family. Dooley Ann George Navarro

“ When I lived with uncle Jerry and all the Coles. We walked to school everyday and on one day Norma got Fred in big trouble so as usual the boys (Jerry,Rich,Fred) told me I had to whoop up on Norma. I love Fed as a brother no if ands or buts, he was my brother. So I did give Norma a good whoopin. And when her mom told Bonnie I got mine. BUT oh man it was so worth it. I love you Freddy and will miss you so bad.
