“ My condolences to Melinda, their sons, Dustin and Jacob. My prayers are with you in this most difficult time. I worked with Gregg at Cummins in Phoenix, AZ and I am from Kansas City. We both started on nearly the same day. I was new to Cummins, he was not. I had lots of questions, Gregg had all the answers. I leaned pretty hard on him for help at first. I felt like after 2 years working with him and playing golf (loved his golf) I felt I knew him and I did. Always willing to put his stuff to the side and help. Broke his leg, he is at work, like nothing happened. After Gregg left AZ in March, I still called him on a regular basis to see how he was doing and banter a bit, as that is what we would do. I simply enjoyed visiting with him, he brought me back to center. In early June, I flew back to KC to attend my 40 year high school reunion and had lunch with Gregg. I am so glad I did as I never knew I would not see him again. I will say, the picture on this memorial speaks volumes! Simply put, a NICE man, content! I will miss you "my friend", may you rest in peace and know your spirit lives in all of us! God Bless you and your Family! Phil Cochren, Scottsdale, AZ.

“ Whenever I think of Gregg I think of his smile and his kindness. He brightened a room. Also when I think of him I, of course, thought of his soulmate, Melinda. He loved her with all he had. They had a love that I admired and a marriage that was unmistakably a forever one. He loved his boys and adored Alena. We may never understand God's plans but we can find comfort in knowing that Gregg is looking down and smiling and will always be by the side of his loved ones.

"Do not let your hearts be troubled. You believe in God; believe also in me. My Father's house has many rooms; if that were not so, would I have told you that I am going there to prepare a place for you?"

Rest easy, Gregg. We love you and you will be terribly missed. Melinda, know that we are all here to walk this next chapter with you and help you along. I love you and my heart aches for you.

“ I was looking at all the pics of Gregg and Melinda today and this beautiful picture on Gregg's obituary that really captures him. It brought to mind that Gregg is one of those rare souls that naturally projected the most beautiful loving energy while he was here on earth. He had such a kind demeanor and had those type of eyes and a smile that radiated goodness from the inside out. You can see it just by looking at his photos!

In all the pics I have seen of Gregg and Melinda, every single one shines through with the unique and rock solid love they had for one another. Anyone who knew them as a couple could easily notice the strength of their love for one another and that they were a marriage of two people absolutely meant to be together and a union to look up to. Together they created an amazing family and I always thought it was so cool that as young adults, their sons liked to hang out with their mom and dad when Gregg and Melinda would attend parties and gatherings with friends of their own age group. They have raised two very good men.

The barrier between this world and the next has been described as a "thin veil" separating the two - separating those of us still here on earth from our loved ones who have moved on to the other side. I like this description because in my experience and in the experiences of many others I have talked to who have faced great loss, there are so many stories in which it seems that the veil is allowed to be pulled back for us from time to time, so we can experience the connection and love that still exists between us. It may be in a song that arrives at just the right time or a dream that is very real and easily remembered in which we are visited by our loved ones, or maybe it's a sense of peace that comes to us at our darkest hour. For each person the experiences are unique and undeniable.

I pray for each of you - Melinda, Jacob, Dustin, Jessica, Alena and the entire extended family, that as you move through your grief, you will experience those moments where the veil is lifted and you are comforted in your pain. I pray you feel God wrapping his loving arms around you and that your love for one another will strengthen each of you. I pray you know you are loved by so many people and we are all here for you, sending you love and light.

*"Fly, Fly to the Angels
Heaven Awaits Your Heart and Flowers Bloom in Your Name
Fly, Fly to the Angels
All the Stars in the Sky Shine in Your Name"
(Had to put some 80's rock lyrics in here) ;)*

*We love you Gregg. Thank you for shining your soul's beautiful light on us - we are all better people for having known you.....and we'll see you on the other side brother.
