“ I worked side by side with Kirby for 9 years. Every day, I always got a kick out of his wit, and am proud to have called him my friend, and have him call me the same.

“ I loved Kirby the minute I met him, which was a problem since he was "kinda" (his words) dating someone else at the time. After he broke it off with the other person we dated, eventually moved in together, broke up for a short while, got back and five years later got married. Unfortunately, we grew apart and divorced. About a year later, he contacted me to resume in friendship, phone calls, the occasional lunch or dinner, visit to my parents (a big surprise) for many years, until I moved out of MO and we lost touch for a few more years. I searched him out through the help of his little brother and resumed our friendship as best we could calling long distance... True to self Kirby never let on to me that he was ill, so when we lost touch the last time I had hoped it was because he had found someone to share his life. I only wish someone would have let me know he was so ill, Maybe, I could have seen and/or spoken to him one last time. I know that he has gone to be with God. I know he will be waiting for the people he cared most for to join him, his mom and brothers; Mike and Steve and his nephew Mitch that he spoke of with such pride. I never stopped caring for Kirby or loving him in spite of our split and I will miss him, his laugh, and his silly jokes. I hope that I am among those who get to see him again in heaven, save me a place Kirby, you are missed.

“ The first time I met Kirby, I knew he was just as sarcastic as I. We laughed allot, at times at the expense of my sister, sorry Carole.. ya know I love ya! I'm very glad to have had the opportunity to have met him. RIP Kirby.... your dog who went before you is waiting..
