Sara's butterfly sign graced Successful Living Books racks both locally and nationally. She was employed at Lucille Davis, a clothing boutique in Liberty, MO for 17 years. She loved playing paper dolls outfitting her customers. She also worked for Bedinger's Ethan Allen on Liberty square. Her favorite hobby was reading, she was a member of several local book clubs. She had several articles published and wrote a book, Women of Class: Breast Cancer 101, (that included 29 stories of other women's journeys with breast cancer, it has her butterfly on the front cover). She also volunteered at St. Mary's Food Kitchen and at the Martha Lafite Thompson Nature Sanctuary. Her favorite times were when she could have her family all together. She often joked that she was Bionic on her left side, with a pacemaker, metal plate and seventeen pins in her arm along with a knee replacement.
